EXPLOIT 3 V 2 ATTACKING OVERLOADS

82-P8 | WAVE OF PLAY

ORGANISATION

- This practice takes place in a 30 by 36-yard area and is a wave game developing players ability to exploit attacking overloads and quick transitions.
- We set up by splitting the area into three 12-yard zones, with players split into three teams. Two teams (Pink and Dark Blue) start as defending teams in the end zones, with the Blue team starting as the attackers from the central zone.
- The two floaters (Gold) act as the striker for the attacking team, creating a 3 v 2 overload. If the attacking team score, they will run back to the middle zone to receive a ball and attack the opposite goal. If the defenders win possession, they now become the attacking team and can start by attacking the opposite goal.

KEY COACHING POINTS SUMMARY

- Off-the-ball movement to create options - exploit overloads
- Exploit space created by overloads
- Get shots away quickly after entering the zone if no pressure is applied
- Quick transitions after winning possession - support the attack
- Use floater to distract defenders and create space to finish

EXPLOIT 3 V 2 ATTACKING OVERLOADS

BETTER COACHES. BETTER PLAYERS.

PROGRESSION 1

Allow one defender to recover into the transition zone, increasing pressure on attackers, encouraging quicker decisions, improved movement, and developing awareness during transitions.

PROGRESSION 2

Introduce one defender and a floater starting in the transition zone, adding complexity and increasing the number of transitions, helping players improve reaction times both on and off the ball.
